

rt image's MVP

Readers choose radiology's most valuable products and services

Teleradiology

StatRad

Demands are high in the fast-paced world of teleradiology, but hospitals and physicians can be confident with a company like StatRad on their side. StatRad is leading the way for teleradiology providers, offering around-the-clock services and customized solutions, with today's latest software and technology. Hospitals and healthcare groups rely on their services to save money, supplement staffing, improve patient care, and maintain control of their facilities. StatRad also offers a network of board-certified radiologists able to interpret in all digital modalities.

Robert Benson, MD, of Reliant Radiology in La Mirada, Calif. says: "Previously, we were using a much larger, international company. Since switching providers, we have found that StatRad just does everything right. They are personable and kind and have tailored their operations to meet the specific needs of our particular practice. Their technology far exceeds our prior provider in overall quality assurance, turn-around times, and the impeccable ability of their radiologists to communicate seamlessly with our hospital's referring doctors. Not only are we as radiologists happy, but the entire hospital staff, including the administration, couldn't be more pleased."

For more information, visit www.statrad.com.